

Text Scripts We Used to Qualify Over 200,000 Real Geeks Leads

Introduction

Real estate agents spend a lot of time and effort generating, engaging, and qualifying online leads to convert them into clients. It is a complex process that involves persistence, coordination with multiple stakeholders, and most importantly proper communication!

We at Hire Aiva have been fortunate enough to work with a lot of top real estate agents and teams across the United States and Canada, a lot of whom use Real Geeks to manage and grow their real estate businesses.

In the past year, after having engaged, via text, over 200,000 online real estate leads generated by Real Geeks on behalf of our mutual clients, we put together this guide to share the lead qualification scripts we have used successfully.

These text scripts are presented as real conversations with details modified for privacy and you can put these scripts in place today to qualify your real estate buyers, sellers, and renters.

If you use Real Geeks or any other real estate lead generation system in the market, we hope you and your team will find these scripts useful in qualifying real estate leads!

Sellers

Hi Sarah, this is Aiva from the Livewell Realty team. I saw you are interested in potentially listing your home 123 Elm St., I have 2-3 quick questions I'd like to ask to help us with a home valuation?

Sure what do you need?

Two questions: Do you have a specific timeline in mind to sell your home? Also any recent major updates to your home? They may affect the home valuation so wanted to ask

Well we redid the garage last year, added more shelves, and remodeled our master bedroom

Great! Do you have an ideal price in mind you're hoping to get?

We're considering retirement so the proceeds need to cover our new home we're looking to buy in Florida, at least $485k I'm thinking

None at the moment, I will reach out as they come up
